Skills or education:

I worked with a small company that specialized in the auditing, outsourcing and consulting of cable television networks. My primary duties included managing several small to large cable television network's A/R department. Recently I have been working with Farmers Insurance as an independent agent and in this field I have been well educated on the risks and perils all commercial entities must face in their day to day operations. I currently hold my Bachelor of Science degree in Economics from Regis University and I am currently pursuing a dual MBA in Finance and Accounting as well as Operations Management from Regis University. I hold my property and casualty insurance license as well.

Civic activities:

I volunteered a great deal with Regis University, being a member of their annual Father Woody's Christmas Party, which provided a warm meal and presents for the less fortunate and homeless citizens of the Denver metro area. I also volunteered as a tutor for elementary school children in an at risk Denver neighborhood. I was also a Teachers Assistant in Economics, Business, Writing and Literature for the Commitment Program at Regis University. The Commitment Program was a unique program for students on academic probation at Regis which fostered individual learning techniques helping students to succeed while at a private college.

Traits:

I feel I can offer a logical solution to any problem. If the problem cannot be solved, I have no issues with letting people know there is no solution. I feel I am a very straight forward individual that wants business owners and other individuals to succeed.

Why:

I feel I need more community involvement, with my business being in the insurance industry, every business owner needs to be aware of the potential risks and perils they can face without being totally aware. I feel this position with the Liquor Licensing Authority will allow me to be more involved in the community while serving a greater purpose of protecting our community.
