

COMMUNICATIONS MEMORANDUM
#5-2021

DATE: April 26, 2021
TO: Honorable Mayor Meredith Leighty and City Council Members
THROUGH: Heather Geyer, City Manager
FROM: Diana Wilson, Director of Communications
SUBJECT: 2021 Council Communications

PURPOSE

To review 2020 communications related to City Council activities and share 2021 plans with City Council.

BACKGROUND

On Feb. 10, 2020, Council reviewed recommendations for communications regarding their activities. The plan was followed with some adjustments for COVID-19 impacts.

BUDGET/TIME IMPLICATIONS

Communication of City Council activities is part of the General Fund.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Staff is seeking City Council input on and support of 2021 plans.

STAFF REFERENCE

If Council members have any questions, please contact Diana Wilson, Director of Communications, at dwilson@northglenn.org or 303.450.8713.

ATTACHMENTS

1. City Council Communications & Engagement – 2021 Update
2. Communications and Engagement Three-Year Plan
3. Presentation

The Communications team will communicate all official Council events, highlight City Council issues and work on City communications platforms, and coordinate with City Council members on promotion for outreach efforts.

What City platforms are used for Mayor and Council information?

- The Connection: An 8 to 12 page full-color newsletter mailed monthly to every address in Northglenn
- Web site: www.northglenn.org
- Social media: City of Northglenn Facebook page, Twitter account, Instagram profile, YouTube channel, and Nextdoor. Please note, on Nextdoor we can post information/respond to comments on our posts, but are not able to engage in other conversations.
- City Manager's Report: An internal e-newsletter for employees and City Council
- Channel 8: Available to Comcast subscribers
- Direct mail: Primarily postcards to notify residents of Mayor, ward, and other public meetings

2020 Recap of Changes

- The legislative recap section in the monthly Connection now looks ahead, takes a deeper dive into Council's most relevant work, and encourages engagement.
- Connection articles tie to strategic plan goals as much as possible, with one goal in particular highlighted each month.
- In addition to the monthly Mayor column, Council members were featured in four issues of the Connection.
- Regular Mayor's Monthly Minute videos were placed on the web site, Channel 8 and social media channels.
- One ward tour video was completed, and shared on social media, Channel 8 and on the web site.
- Council Q & A section has been added to webpages.
- Council engagement page was added to the web site.

2020 Recap of New/Refreshed Efforts

E-Newsletter – launched in March 2020

Highlights four to six issues or events in a short format and refers back to our web site and social media for detailed information. At least one topic each month is Council-related. Anyone may subscribe; it is not limited to residents.

New Resident Welcome – launched December 2020

- An eight-page print or digital information piece aimed at new residents
- Available online, in print at City Hall, and mailed to new water customers every three months

Annual Report – 2019 report issued in March 2020; 2020 report released February 2021

An overview format that highlights achievements, like last year, is planned for this year. It's in the Connection, and a stand-alone piece is available digitally and printable if needed. Staff hopes to have an annual report as part of a calendar to hand out at Noel Northglenn; this will depend on funding and predictability of events to implement for 2022.

Mayor and Ward Outreach – Success despite COVID-19

Virtual meetings were not quite as well attended as in-person. All meetings are posted on www.northglenn.org/engage to help demonstrate community engagement efforts and information on opportunities.

Thank you for planning ahead – please continue to inform the City Manager's Office and Communications Division of Mayor or ward meeting plans six weeks in advance, if not sooner. The promotional efforts (in the Connection one to two times, postcards, social media posts/event) have led to successful engagement. If you have additional suggestions on promotion, please feel free to share your ideas.

Timing of postcards has been a challenge. Once some Mingle with the Mayor post cards arrived after the event; lately they've arrived a bit early. USPS is tough to predict – staff is erring on the side of early. These are an expensive promotional tool (about $1,500 per ward per meeting), however, single-subject direct mail tends to have the most impact on attendance.

Digital Engagement Tool

Staff launched www.northglenn.org/virtualtownhall in April. This page hosted an OpenGov product that enables comments and back-and-forth conversation as well as Telephone Town Hall streaming and archive. The most participation with OpenGov was on how to spend the CARES Act funds.

Telephone and/or livestream town halls

Eight telephone town halls were held; they were successful, though participation dwindled as the year progressed. These are expensive (~$3,000 each); luckily CARES Act funding covered the effort in 2020.

State of the City

Mayor Leighty gave this presentation, which was primarily designed by the City Manager and Economic Development staff.

Good Neighbor Awards – launched in 2020

All but one of the scheduled presentations had solid participation. Unclear if low participation was influenced by COVID-19 or promotion timing was not optimal.

A “Meet your City Council Members” table at events

This was limited this year, but residents seemed to enjoy seeing the Mayor and Council Members at the Grab ‘N Go and July 4th Cool Car Cruise.

2021 Addition/Change

Information for Voters

- October Connection insert – City Council candidates will complete a form and submit a photo
- Candidate forum video – City provides location, video recording, and shares information about the event
- Candidate space at events (fee) – Candidates may purchase space at July 4th, Pirate Fest, and Safe Street Halloween to hand out materials, put up signs, etc.

2021 Other Suggestions/Points of Interest

Telephone Town Halls – These are possible, but please remember that the call-out is limited to landlines and those that registered to be contacted (staff had access to mobile numbers during the COVID-19 emergency, but that is now rescinded). They are an expensive tool, so staff suggests using only for discussions of major issues.

Online engagement – Staff recommends continuing to use www.northglenn.org/virtualtownhall for the OpenGov platform and reevaluate whether to continue or change next year. Participation was limited.

Continue City event involvement – Communications staff will promote if they know Council members are going to be at a City event. Displays or giveaways can be provided if requested ahead of time.

Ward Tour Videos – Communications encourages the remaining wards to participate. The video had nice play; it is an opportunity to “show some love” for a few local videos, and is incorporated in to Channel 8, YouTube and Council Member webpages.

Council Connection Articles – The vision is for these articles to occur monthly, but space is a challenge. Staff recommends a repeat of “Getting to Know...” after the election with a fresh set of questions for Council Members who have already been featured.

Social Media Responses – The City has a social media policy and staff tries its best to follow it. Off-topic comments on posts and threats are not appropriate. During Council meetings, YouTube comments are sometimes posted; they will be responded to eventually, but a back-and-forth with the City does not encourage communication with Council members directly or at meetings, and that is preferred.

Virtual/Hybrid Meetings – City Council and ward meetings did not have as much attendance as in-person meetings. However, it is a way to offer accessibility to more community members. It's recommended in-person meetings resume, but if hybrid is possible, it offers an alternative way for residents to engage with Council.

City of Northglenn Three-Year Communications & Engagement Plan 2021-2023

D. Wilson, rev. 2/16/21

Background

At the end of 2020, an 18-month communications plan came to a close (see Appendix A – 18-month Plan). The plan helped transform the City of Northglenn Communications & Engagement Department from a reactive, task-oriented operation to a structured, forward-looking team under a Director of Communications. In February of 2020, the Engagement Division was merged with the Communications Division. This new three-year plan is designed to pick up where the 18-month plan left off, incorporate Engagement team work, and coordinate with the city's 2019-2023 Strategic Plan.

The team is responsible for:

1. Communicating information originating from the City Manager's Office or City Council to all stakeholders
2. Supporting all city departments with public information dissemination
3. Large city events
4. Coordinating community outreach and engagement

The current Communications & Engagement Department consists of the following positions: Director of Communications, two Communications Specialists, Events Supervisor, Event Coordinator, and Outreach Coordinator.

See Appendix B - Current State for a full description of communications and engagement responsibilities and projects.

Please note, this three-year plan is intended as a high-level living document. The 18-month plan (Appendix A) includes an extensive audit of city communications, and the city Strategic Plan details the goals this department works toward and supports. This plan does not restate all that material; it adds to and builds upon it.

Our Commitment

The City of Northglenn Communications and Engagement Department (C&E):

- Helps implement the City of Northglenn Strategic Plan, particularly High-Performance Government, Community Engagement, and Diverse Community goals
- Communicates Strategic Plan accomplishments with residents and other stakeholders
- Engages residents and other stakeholders through events, business sponsorship, volunteerism, and other city public input/participation opportunities
- Reinforces the city mission, vision, and values externally and internally (internal now under development) through consistent communications
- Informs residents about current community issues and happenings, including sharing information from surrounding jurisdictions and other community partners if appropriate
- Supports residents through collaboration with community partners and volunteer programs
- Assists all city departments in communicating with residents and employees, including emergency communications
- Encourages participation in local government and strives to increase constructive community engagement

Performance Measures

C&E will use the following methods to evaluate performance:

- Resident survey data
- Social media reach and engagement
- Website metrics
- Event attendance goals
- Volunteer hours
- Focus groups and targeted surveys
- Sponsorship growth
- Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion efforts

See Appendix C – Performance Measures for baseline data.

SWOT Analysis

An extensive Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threat analysis is included in the 18-month communications plan (see Appendix A). The majority of that data remains relevant, with these additions/notes:

- Strengths: Team accountability and collaboration in the last year has enabled stronger relationships throughout the city; Strategic Plan and communications plan have helped organize and direct work.
- Weaknesses: Channel 8 access/reach continues to dwindle and web streaming does not demonstrate strong ROI; this limits Channel 8 as a communications tool. Outreach Coordinator duties are at capacity. Internal barriers have been significantly reduced but some still remain (silos).
- Opportunities: Combining communications, engagement, and outreach has broadened the perspective/creativity of the workgroup. The new recreation facility will expand event, outreach, and communication opportunities.
- Threats: Economic conditions may hinder budget. Though promotion has drastically increased, media coverage remains difficult to attract due to size of city/competition.

Three-Year C&E Goals

- Increase communications reach to, engagement with, and event attendance of Northglenn residents
- Effectively and consistently communicate status on city Strategic Plan goals internally and externally
- Upgrade and continually monitor effectiveness of internal communications platforms
- Increase diversity efforts in line with city efforts (inclusive language, seek partners to increase reach to different audiences, collaborate with employee and resident diversity, inclusion and social equity groups)
- Increase constructive engagement on city issues to support City Council decision-making and communicate work of council-appointed boards/commissions/task forces.
- Adjust special events to follow health/safety guidelines and/or take advantage of changing venues
- Assess the programs under the Outreach Coordinator, compare to municipal best practices and adjust to suit current community needs
- Review and update City Council communications strategies annually
- Review and adjust City Manager communications strategies annually
- Submit or support submission of awards applications for notable city efforts/projects with organizations such as NLC, ICMA, ELGL, 3CMA, and professional associations associated with different departments
- Increase awareness of City of Northglenn projects and expertise through submission of industry articles, leading conference sessions, news releases, and networking/collaborating with other communications professionals in area/region/other US municipalities

2021 Action Items (beyond base responsibilities and work products)

- Continue COVID-19 public information efforts (Q1-Q4)
- Complete and distribute 2020 Annual Report/Year in Review (Q1)
- Revamp internal website – intranet, or New NIC (Q1-2)

- Add a new “concept” event (Q2-3)
- Determine viability of 2022 City of Northglenn Calendar; if viable design, print and distribute (Q4)
- Develop RFP for public website vendor (Q4)
- Social Media 2022: 10% growth on Instagram, 8% increase on Facebook and 5% increase of Twitter followers/likes. Nextdoor growth is dependent on platform marketing (year-long)
- Submit a minimum of five awards applications (new rec center opening should offer opportunities) (ongoing)
- Hold a minimum of three citywide communicators meetings (year-long)
- Update/replace light pole banners as needed (ongoing)
- Support promotion of expanded arts/rec programming (ongoing)
- Identify current department programs and city efforts in need of support and outline promotion/engagement plans for each (ongoing)

2023 Action Items (beyond base responsibilities and work products)

- Issue RFP for public website vendor (Q1)
- If 2023 calendar not viable, develop and distribute 2022 Year in Review/Annual Report (Q1)
- Explore resident text message options (Q2)
- Add a new “concept” event (Q2-3)
- Refresh city look to coordinate with city Strategic Plan update. Include refreshed look in all communications platforms including website, Connection, social media templates, and internal use templates (Q3-4)
- Revamp and launch new/refreshed public website that coordinates with strategic plan update (Q3-4)
- Social Media 2023: 10% growth on Instagram, 8% increase on Facebook and 5% increase of Twitter followers/likes. Nextdoor growth is dependent on platform marketing (year-long)
- Submit a minimum of three awards applications (ongoing)
- Hold a minimum of three citywide communicators meetings (year-long)
- Update/replace light pole banners as needed (ongoing)
- Support promotion of expanded arts/rec programming (ongoing)
- Identify current department programs and city efforts in need of support and outline promotion/engagement plans for each (ongoing)

Appendix A – 18-month Plan (excerpts from CITY MANAGER MEMORANDUM #37-2019 July 15, 2019)

BACKGROUND

In late February of this year, the City Manager brought on contract support to complete an assessment of the communications division of the city, including assessment of current efforts, providing strategic counsel regarding roles and responsibilities, and recommendations for a city communications plan to support council's vision and goals. While completing the analysis and recommendations, Heather Rule Grady has also been serving in the role of Interim Communications Manager.

This communications update is being provided to City Council in support of these efforts. It includes recommendations around structure and function to ensure there is long-term stability in the division and in the management of the division while not sacrificing current performance levels.

At the same time that the evaluation has been taking place, the communications functions of the city have continued at pace, though some changes have taken place in alignment with recommendations and long-term planning efforts. In addition, 50th Anniversary events and activities have progressed at council direction and in collaboration with other departments' staff.

Due to the unforeseen changes in recent weeks and the subsequent need to reschedule the third and final council strategic planning session, this update is one of two communications updates that will be provided to city council.

The attached Basic SWOT Analysis and Recommendations should be considered complete in current form. The attached Communications Plan is in draft form and will need to be finalized once council completes its third strategic planning session in August of this year. Once the strategic planning process has been completed, the second update with City Council will be scheduled. A communications plan, in order to be effective, needs to be a living, breathing document that is used for quarterly evaluation of city communications and should be regularly updated and amended in response to measuring, monitoring, resource allocation/reallocation and any shifting needs and priorities. It is recommended the Interim Communications Manager provide a monthly update to the City Manager on progress

City of Northglenn SWOT Analysis and Big Picture Recommendations

Preface:

This SWOT (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, Threats) Analysis and resulting "big picture" recommendations is a tool that should be used in conjunction with the communications plan to build Northglenn's communications infrastructure and to make decisions on resource allocation and prioritization.

A SWOT analysis is a strategic planning technique that is used to identify strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats for a business venture, project or entity. With a local government, it can be a useful tool to break out of certain mindsets and provide a framework for creating concrete plans to meet goals and make decisions regarding resource allocation.

The SWOT analysis is only one tool and is herein combined with recommendations in an effort to ensure it is not simply a compilation of items / factors into a list but a resource to help provide critical thinking around communications' roles and responsibilities in helping the city realize its vision.

In general, Strengths and Weaknesses are internally focused and Opportunities and Threats are external in focus. This should not and cannot be viewed as a comprehensive SWOT analysis for the city, but a tool to provide context for the development of a communications plan for the city. This is a basic analysis focused on historical and current internal and external communications efforts by the communications division as well as communications efforts undergone by departments and divisions, often without the support of the communications division.

The analysis is a result of observation; review of documents created and compiled over 10 years; one-on-one interviews; department and division meetings; email inquiries and performing the position of Interim Communications Manager for just over three months. It is recommended that another, more thorough, analysis is undertaken in the second quarter of 2020 after the new head of the division has been in place for six months to one year and changes have been implemented for that same period.

General Observations - communications division:

The city of Northglenn has been through a number of staff changes in recent years. This includes City Managers and Communications Managers.

Staffing changes in the communications division have led to inconsistencies and lack of transparency in communications efforts as well as a lack of clarity in roles and responsibilities as well as strategies, priorities and vision.

This has also led to a distrust of the division and a lack of collaboration in communications efforts citywide. Other departments and divisions have taken on communications duties because the communications division has not been able to fulfill their needs.

The staff of Northglenn is dedicated and committed to the success of the organization. However, there has been a culture of surviving for some time. It will be a challenge to shift to a culture of thriving.

The Communications Manager job description is inconsistent with the actual position requirements. This has made it difficult to hire, not competitive in the marketplace and has made it challenging to find the right person for the position.

Communication and a perceived and actual lack of communications is a high priority for residents, council and staff. The communications division has been operating in a reactive mode. This means there is a daily re-prioritization of tasks, lack of monitoring and feedback and other challenges that need to be addressed. There is a lack of standard operating procedures for the division. Communications has not actively looked at available tools and resources that are or would be effective nor best practices that could be implemented in Northglenn. This has often led to ineffective use of tools, staff time and dollars. The demands and expectations of the communications division have grown exponentially over time and staffing and tools have not been allocated to meet the increased demands and expectations. The communications division has historically been challenging / difficult to work with and is perceived as non-responsive by other departments and divisions. There has been no structure to "how we do business" as a communications division. There is a lack of strategy and planning, particularly with regard to communications. Goals, needs and priorities of the communications division (at times driven by one-time events or crisis) often conflict with goals, needs and priorities of other departments / divisions. Communications staff has been in execution (do, do, do) mode, lacking time, resources and tools to adequately plan, execute at the highest level, measure results and report back to internal clients / constituents. Technology in the field of communication with and to residents has changed significantly in recent years and will continue to change. Residents will demand utilization of new tools and engagement tactics. Operating in constant crisis response mode and only executing upon "critical at this moment" items has stifled staff from excelling and, at times, even completing work that is underway. The active and engaged residents of Northglenn have always been and are committed to the city and want to be involved.

Strengths

Northglenn is a city with passionate residents and staff. The government is divided into departments by Charter to provide services and resources for residents and businesses. While there has been instability in some senior leadership positions, staff has continued to perform at the level possible within constraints and changing directions. The new City Manager is dedicated to "steadying the ship" and providing clear leadership and a high level of professionalism and collaboration within the organization.

The new City Manager has undertaken to make the organization more professional in both structure and function. Resources have been committed to council strategic planning, a resident survey and an employee survey. This will provide the City Manager and Leadership Team the ability to assess current status with regard to programs and services and provide a baseline for growth and development internally and externally.

Strengths are the internal attributes and resources that work to the benefit of the organization. In marketing speak they provide us with an advantage over others. With regard to a communications plan, these are positive aspects and resources that we can utilize to tell stories, share experiences and utilize as assets to reach organizational goals.

Structural and Functional Strengths

- Committed staff
- City Council, City Manager, and city staff believe in Northglenn and are committed to the city's success
- City Manager is making structural and functional changes to lead to more effective and efficient structure and function
- Many staff members have plugged away and are getting stuff done despite leadership changes and unclear direction
- Staff was honest and open in employee survey and focus group meetings
- Where and when the communications division has not been responsive or engaged, staff in other department have moved forward projects, programs and communication
- Police department dedicated PIO
- Police department social media channels
- Long-term employee recognition programs
- Active boards and commissions members
- Benefits package is attractive to potential employees
- Staff expertise and institutional knowledge (both a strength and a weakness)
- CPAAAN

Owned and Managed Assets (Greater detail on assets is outlined in asset document)

- Connection
- Direct Mail Post Cards
- Website
- Annual Reports
- You Tube Channel
- Channel 8
- Social Media Channels
 - Facebook
 - Instagram
 - Twitter

O NextDoor

- NiC (Intranet)
- Banners at Recreation Center
- Bulletin Boards
- Access Northglenn
- Northglenn Arts email list
- Northglenn Arts brochure
- Parks and Recreation email list
- Parks and Recreation brochures
- Light pole banners
- Digital signage partnerships with businesses
- City Manager bi-weekly report - is changing and improving by incorporating staff and council suggestions

City structure, function, and programs

- Regionally recognized events that drive people into the city
- Northglenn Arts - programs and performances are exceptional
- Northglenn Arts - outdoor art collection is surprising and an under-told story
- Celebration of 50th Anniversary
- Funded CIP projects
- Parks and Open space is enviable
- Community Engagement Events and Activities
 - O Ward meetings
 - O Mingle with the Mayor
- Community Events
- City Beautification Awards
- Resident Recognition Program
- Block Party Trailer
- Community Engagement Recommendation - need to re-assess and activate where it aligns with vision
- Trail adoption program
- National Night Out
- Staff longevity awards and other city staff award programs

Weaknesses (Barriers and Challenges)

Northglenn has internal barriers and challenges that need to be addressed in order to transition into a high performing organization across all departments. The weaknesses outlined below are internal. Many came out of the employee survey.

The primary goal of the government is to serve residents and businesses in Northglenn. In order to do so at the highest level of customer service, the internal culture needs to shift from reactionary and crisis driven to planned, measured, vision-aligned prioritization and action. The culture is one of "just getting by" and "just getting it done." To shift to a high functioning organization, this needs to change.

Structural and Functional

- Lack of crisis management planning
- Need for steady, consistent leadership as the city has been through many changes in leadership in the past few years, including City Manager and Communications Manager
- There is more work that needs to be done by communications division than there are resources to complete the work in a timely fashion
- The position of Communications Manager has not been properly defined and the position has not been set up for success
- Lack of communication from leadership to all employees - limited or no feedback loop
- Council often uses a direct line of communication to staff, going around the city manager to front line staff
- Has not been an emphasis on capacity building for existing staff
- Historic lack of trust in communications division
 - O Communications has historically often not engaged in a consistent and comprehensive manner with other departments or divisions to assist them in communications efforts
 - O There is a lack of understanding of the role the communications division has in the city.
 - O Communications has consistently underperformed for internal clients - late on delivery or not getting things done (often due to shifting priorities and "emergency" response needs)
 - O There is a lack of formal requests for work from and with the communications division often leading to incomplete requests
 - O Lack of feedback loops from communications division
- Much "work" is completed (not just in, with, and for communications division) via email and this leads to miscommunication regarding priorities, needs, wants and deliverables.

- Mindset of "this is the way we've always done it" / institutional knowledge (both a strength and a weakness)
- Employees feel undervalued
- Unclear role and expectations of Leadership Team (this is changing)
- Lack of face to face meetings with lots of back and forth via email
- Lack of understanding of roles and responsibilities of other staff

Owned and Managed Assets

- Funds spent on external services not needed nor measured effectively
- Website is not easy to use, particularly with search terms
- Emailed Newsletter to residents - went away, but still advertised on website – needs strategic purpose to be utilized effectively
- Bulletin boards throughout the city are underutilized
- Use of videos on Channel 8 and Social Media channels can be expanded to meet organizational goals
- NiC - is underutilized
- Telephone town halls - was looked into and used briefly with a favorable response, but should be considered as an option to increase engagement

City-wide

- Constantly and consistently shifting priorities
- Changes in leadership have been frequent and unsettling internally and externally
- Ward meeting attendees are often the usual suspects, not new people
- Social Media channels have been created but not assessed regularly - there may be too many - needs specific analysis and measurement in alignment with communications plan
- There is a perceived lack of meaningful presence for council members at events and activities
- Council strife
- Desire to expand community engagement without a definition of what that means or how success is measured.

Opportunities

Opportunities are external / external outreach elements that the city can use to achieve strategic priorities and goals to meet the vision. These are elements that can be tapped into, expanded or used to enhance our communications efforts.

- Passionate, active and engaged residents - small in number but demographics shifting
- Council strategic planning process
- Resident survey and commitment of city manager to conduct on a regular basis
- Comprehensive plan planning process
- Civic Campus Master Plan Community Engagement
 - New recreation center
 - New theatre
 - New senior center
- Development and Redevelopment Opportunities / NURA
- Completion and consistency of rebranding
- Ability and direction to analyze and augment city website and drive residents to areas to "help themselves"
- Regional media opportunities to promote city programs, projects, events and activities
- 50th Anniversary momentum
 - Resident Recognition Program continuation after this year
 - Light pole banner utilization
 - Regional media interest generated
- Awards for programs, activities and events - local, regional, state-wide and national
- Memberships and potential for presentations at conferences, etc.
- Census 2020 outreach efforts
- New Resident Welcome Packet - has been discussed for years
- Community partnerships and resident driven groups

Threats

Threats are those external elements that could cause trouble or create challenges to communications efforts.

- City is land locked and this limits growth
- Seen as a bedroom community only - broad perception in region
- Perceptions related to revolving leadership over a long period of time – perceived instability and not a good place to work
- Increased "competition" for some historic events and activities - candlelight vigil; 4th of July event
- 24-hour splash news cycle that does not lend itself to local government coverage
- Lack of knowledge of city assets outside of city or those involved
- Lack of structured internal communications focus has led to negative or incorrect external perceptions of city

Notes in RED report completion/status as of 1/25/21

General Recommendations:

- Capitalize upon 50th Anniversary Celebration as a communication tool (in progress, but more effort is needed in communications plan through the fall and into 2020.) Complete
- Update job description and classification of division head to Communications Director with clear expectations and job requirements Complete
- Strategize. Stop, take a look and ask why to break the cycle of "do, do, do" and build a culture where it is acceptable to take time to plan, execute to the highest level, monitor results and report back to internal and external stakeholders. Complete
- Build tool for internal clients to request work by the communications division (underway in collaboration with IT) Delayed due to access by remote work (COVID-19); currently evaluating need with new structure now in place
- Make it ok for communications division staff to provide a "no" or "not now" response when other needs are a priority and communications division staff provides a polite and timely response to include explanation and possible timeline if staff needs to move forward. Complete
- Create and provide a "road show" to educate other department and divisions on role of communications division; train others on new request database; and provide clear expectations for division staff and internal clients and create a "help us help you" mentality On-going. Citywide communicators group supports this recommendation.
- Build capacity and further expertise among communications division staff Complete and on-going
- Utilize resident survey responses to make changes to asset list and communications plan Complete

Preface:

This Communications Plan is a dynamic tool that should be used as a framework for the city to move its vision forward and effectively communicate with internal and external audiences. Execution of the plan has already begun in many areas and has been written to guide communication efforts now through December 2020. The plan is an organic document that should be revisited monthly and revised as needed, if not monthly then quarterly, to ensure alignment with council's vision and human and financial resources.

The city of Northglenn has been through a number of staff changes in recent years. Staffing changes in the communications division have led to some inconsistencies in communications efforts and a lack of clarity in roles and responsibilities. The short and long term views provided through an 18-month communications plan will give structure, direction and clarity in short and long term goals with measurable desired results. There is flexibility built in to enable the new Communications Director the ability to enhance the plan and imprint the elements with additional expertise and guidance.

The communications division reports to the City Manager and provides internal and external communications services for departments, residents, City Council and partner entities. The division serves as an internal agency for city departments and as a resource for internal clients who drive their own communications - Northglenn Arts, Community Events, and Northglenn Police Department.

This plan is not a marketing plan and it is not a city strategic plan, though both types of planning can be informed by and contribute to the communications plan. This plan focuses on communications - goals, strategies, tools and tactics to support the vision of the city and to serve the residents, council and staff in the performance of their duties.

It is suggested that an in-depth audience analysis is taken once the resident survey results are reported, a survey of businesses, Northglenn Arts, Seniors and Parks and Recreation are conducted. It is also suggested that focus groups are conducted in each ward to provide data. These should be looked at, along with employee survey results to complete a comprehensive audience analysis and baseline for communications efforts.

Executive Summary:

City Council is still in the process of completing strategic planning and this plan will remain in draft form until the strategic planning is completed and full debrief has been provided. This communications plan outlines the currently understood vision for the city and goals as outlined to date. This plan is informed by the SWOT analysis, employee survey and resident survey.

Communication Priorities within context of Council Goal Statements

Effective internal and external communications are part of each of council's goals. The role of the communications division varies, but overall needs are to

- Build and support internal communications efforts to and with departments, divisions and employees to provide tools and resources to meet council goals;
- Provide information and build public information campaigns that generate interest and build capacity within and for the community;
- Share stories, information and statistics that demonstrate the work being done and the innovation of Northglenn programs, processes and people;
- Arm the mayor, council, staff, businesses and community members with information and tools to celebrate Northglenn and their role in its success.

With this in mind, the following broad communications strategies will drive the meeting of needs outlined above. In the next section the strategies are broken down into tactics and measurable outcomes by strategy. Then we look at strategies, tactics and measurable goals within the context of each council goal statements.

- 1.Deliver integrated public communications efforts across departments, programs and services
- 2.Build a community ambassador network of employees, mayor and council
- 3.Build a community ambassador network among residents and businesses
- 4.Position Northglenn to Shine

Overview of Strategies and Tactics that cross more than one goal statement:

Strategy: Deliver integrated public communications efforts across departments, programs and services

The communications division serves as an internal agency to all city departments and supports their communications needs within the context of department and staff capability and resources. Support varies by department and division and reflects to-date discussions of needs, resources and desired outcomes. These are on-going conversations with many unknowns still. The tactics to support this strategy demonstrate moving past the unknowns and implementing upon desired outcomes. This will include pro-active and reactive efforts.

Elements:

- Create integrated communications plans for all programs, events activities and departments in cooperation with responsible departments and staff:
 - Examine desired outcomes, resources, timelines and audience(s)

- Dog and Pony show - this is what communications does and can do for you
- TO ADD - Breakdown by department outlining specific support

Strategy: Build an ambassador network of employees, mayor and council

Elected officials and city employees are the most important distribution channel for the City in any communications efforts. In order to be effective, individuals must understand, appreciate, and be willing and able to share the city vision and goals. In addition, employees must understand that this vision guides every decision made by City Council, the City Manager, and Department Directors.

Arming elected officials and employees with accurate, timely information as well as distribution tools to share the information is invaluable. A large component is also helping all employees understand the value they bring to the organization and building in systems, process and procedure that celebrate individual and team contributions. This also means sharing vital information on civic engagement and how and why government works, not just the end benefit or result.

Elements:

- Establish clear communications channels that create transparency, collaboration and feedback loops
- Create opportunities for learning, networking and collaboration
- Build a culture of inclusion and cooperation
- Provide clear, consistent communication and feedback to council
- Establish, promote, and maintain clear brand identity
 - Brand logo guidelines and graphic standards are known and understood
 - All materials produced by the city should be approved by the communications division, either through use of templates or a known approval process
 - Brand will be consistent on all printed materials

Tactics:

- Consider revamping / re-instituting In The Loop staff email to compliment City Manager Report
- Furnish all employees with Northglenn branded items: i.e. polo shirts, pens, coffee mugs, etc.
- Create SPOT awards to celebrate good work in the moment
- Conduct a quarterly "All Hands Meeting" led by the City Manager
- Provide employees with all information provided to Press so they hear about it internally before it goes out.
- Review staff on-boarding and see if additional communications tools needed to empower staff to become ambassadors for the city
- Conduct dog and pony show with all departments on communications division
- Assist all departments / divisions in the creation of their own "this is what we do" show to share with other departments (and possibly council)
- Work with Human Resources to provide new employees with the tools they need to be ambassadors for the City.

Strategy - Build a community ambassador network among residents and businesses

The residents of Northglenn, since its establishment, have been passionate and the city can capitalize upon that passion and commitment in two-way communications channels that enhance community engagement and civic involvement by residents and businesses. The economic development team has been doing tremendous work in and with the business community. With more support from and coordination with the communications division, this work can be enhanced and shared more broadly as needed and desired to meet organizational goals.

Strategy - Position Northglenn to Shine

Northglenn is a unique community with a proud history, flourishing present and exciting future. The city has been innovative and creative in problem solving and in spite of leadership changes and structural and functional challenges, staff has been forward-thinking and has gotten the work of the city done to the benefit of residents and the business community. Without an effective, efficient and well-staffed communications division, the story of Northglenn, its history, accomplishments, people, places, businesses, struggles and triumphs have not been shared. The celebration of the 50th Anniversary in 2019 has provided a platform to start to share these and to start to Celebrate Northglenn and to make Northglenn Shine internally and externally. This should and must be seen as a starting point rather than a pinnacle. With stability in leadership and the hiring of a new Communications Director, Northglenn is just starting to change the narrative and opportunities to build upon that narrative are many and varied.

Elements:

- Proactive media relations
- Speaking opportunities for staff to highlight innovations
- Opportunities to share our best practices in case studies and other research
- Event promotion
- Award submissions
- Active membership and involvement in local, regional, state and national membership organizations.
- Capitalize on 50th Anniversary events and activities o Resident Recognition program

Tactics:

- Advertising for 50th Anniversary
- Media Outreach for 50th Anniversary events
- Proactive media outreach
 - Get editorial schedules for regional publications
 - Map outreach strategy to Colorado Municipalities and other similar publications to pitch people and programs
- Community Events
 - Create a booth at all community events that shares the history of Northglenn and its accomplishments
- Connection
 - Start Boards and Commissions Spotlight monthly to share work and information about joining and getting involved
 - Consider advertising by local businesses only
- Engagement in 50th Anniversary events
 - Periodic Brewing - 50th Anniversary Brew

Introduction:

This Asset List is an almost comprehensive list of communications tools available to the communications division as well as other city employees who manage assets outside of communications division.

Assets include traditional print materials, digital and online channels, people resources, meetings and other in-person opportunities. This list is meant to include all assets (tools) available to the city for communications efforts.

This list contains all known tools and assets available for use. There are many assets that are unused or under-utilized. It is recommended to do a full list compilation and evaluation of use and effectiveness once a new Communications Director is hired.

A complete communication tools and assets is valuable in creating and monitoring the communications plan as well as driving the creation of public information campaigns and understanding the full spectrum of information distribution channels available. There needs to be a more thorough analysis after the resident survey is completed.

As we look at and analyze this list, we need to consider public information campaign needs and consistent public information that we know the community cares about and standard annually recurring needs. All tools / assets should be considered in integrated communications best practices based upon desired outcomes. Not all assets / tools will be used in all campaigns. The use of assets should be driven by desired outcomes, audience targeting and resources available (human and financial).

Print:

Print assets are anything that is produced that will be mailed, handed out, put on display or other similar use.

Existing

- Connection Monthly 8-page publication sent to all households and businesses in the city
- Extra copies are printed and kept at city facilities for distribution
- Posted on city website
- Currently the primary communication tool for the city
 - Full city distribution
 - Target Audience - all residents and businesses
 - There is desire to expand Connection
- Staple communications from city to all residents
- Content is consistent
- Recommendations for consideration (needs to be responsive to resident survey) Consider making a larger publication
 - Additional cost
 - Additional staff time to create
- There is enough content that could fill additional 4 -8 pages
- Would include: Project Updates; expanded police statistics; more feature stories; more "this is what the city does" stories; contributions from community partners
 - Review content types to ensure aligned with community needs and council direction.
 - Consider outsourcing final plug in and submission to printer
- Connection Inserts
 - Through the end of 2019 we will utilize two inserts
 - 50th Anniversary commemorative piece in September 2019 - the 35th anniversary of the publication
 - October insert celebrating Northglenn setting the standard for events, art and planning
- Direct Mail Post Cards
 - Currently used for announcement of Ward meetings, council vacancy
 - Consistent size and look for branding but theme may change based upon topic/date
- Flyers / Hand outs (8.5" x 11")
- Banners at Recreation Center (3' x 8')
- Light pole banners
- City Manager Report (bi-weekly digital)
- Posters

- Brochures
- Parks and Recreation Brochure

Appendix B – Current State

The six-person C&E team currently manages or supports a wide variety of city services and endeavors including:

Northglenn Connection - monthly mailer to all Northglenn Addresses (8-12 full color tabloid size pages); manage and edit content, write content as needed, graphic design, and coordinate print and mail.

Website – www.northglenn.org functions as an overview of the city, reference for current services/efforts/community news; C&E are main editors though other department employees encouraged/trained to update department/program pages. Manage content, update, and ensure accessibility.

Social media – manage and post content on Facebook, Instagram, Twitter and Nextdoor city main pages; coordinate with other staff on numerous other social media pages.

Monthly e-newsletter – develop, distribute, and promote subscriptions.

Channel 8 – manage content, coordinate with IT and contractor to upload Council meetings.

City Manager Report – bi-weekly newsletter for Council and employees.

News Releases – write and distribute as needed.

Video – City Council meetings, Mayor’s Monthly Minute, Employee Highlights, Ward Tour, and special subjects as needed (Police recruitment video, snow removal, construction virtual tour, etc.).

Monthly Calendar – sent in news release format to local media and employees as reference tool and to promote participation. Suspended with COVID-19 since programs are constantly changing, many were cancelled, and program capacity was limited.

Events in 2019 included Food Truck Carnival (40,000 people, 86 food trucks), Derby Days (220 kids), July 4 Festival (15,000 people), Magic Fest (3,800 people), Pirate Fest (18,500 people, 72 vendors), and Noel Northglenn (850 people). Engagement team also supports Safe Street Halloween and Arts programs as needed. Sponsorship raised $46,444 (including trade of $2,000).

Events on 2020 included 2 mask giveaways, 7 neighborhood Grab ‘N Go events, July 4 Cool Car Cruise, Magic Fest, Pirate Night, drive through Boo Block, two refurbished bike giveaways, and drive through Noel. All events ran at or very near capacity. Also coordinated contents and distribution of 4000 Summer Fun Goodie Bags and Santa Letter program (280 letters received, 262 replied to). Sponsorship sold: $4,600.

Community Outreach/Volunteer Programs – In 2019 included Farmer’s Highline Canal Clean-up, Volunteer BBQ, Magnificent Tree, Neighborhood Beautification, ACMCYA (youth recognition), flowerbed volunteers, Park clean-up programs, Snow Stormers, refurbished bikes, holiday charitable giving. In 2020 some activities suspended, others shifted to small group or virtual, and distribution of 9000 Northglenn Hug signs and Good Neighbor Awards added.

City Council Packet – Communications Specialist edits for grammar, spelling and clarity each week.

Council Engagement – Mayor Mingle, Ward Meetings, Open Town Hall, Telephone Town Hall, “intro” cards, web bios, photos, event presence, and resident recognition programs (Magnificent Tree, Neighborhood Beautification, Good Neighbor Award) managed/supported by C&E.

Mailers – postcards for Boards/Commissions, ward meetings, new resident guide, urgent efforts (COVID-19).

Graphic design – flyers, postcards, banners, signs, digital materials and more designed for citywide endeavors and by department request.

Talking points/columns – developed for City Manager, Mayor, and other council members and employees for publications, speeches, presentations and more.

Special promotions – Reindeer Receipt Rewards program, Santa Letters, Hug signs, Vet signs, No Fireworks/increased fines, etc.

Internal communications – in addition to the CM Report, scheduled/promoted/and supported All Employee meetings and other activities (like the Ugly Sweater reception/contest), and coming soon – increased management of intranet after revamped to new platform.

HAVE QUESTIONS ABOUT POTENTIAL MARIJUANA DELIVERY?

This month, a state law goes into effect that allows cities to issue permits for licensed marijuana businesses to deliver medical and retail marijuana products.

The marijuana industry is highly regulated by the state, but local jurisdictions may decide if they want to allow delivery within their boundaries.

After two discussions on the issue, City Council is considering allowing Northglenn marijuana retailers to apply for a permit to deliver products to Northglenn residential addresses. The issue will likely be on a regular meeting agenda in late January or early February.

If you have questions or would like to share thoughts or opinions on this issue, please reach out to your City Council representative (contact information below), participate in public comment at a regular meeting, attend the Ward 4 virtual meeting on Jan. 14, or submit a comment online at www.northglenn.org/virtualtownhall.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Input from residents makes a difference - the mayor and council members appreciate hearing from you! Here are options to learn more about council action and weigh in:

- Public comment for regular and special meetings may be submitted to jsmall@northglenn.org

northglenn.org or 303.450.8757 prior to the meeting start time. Comments are not taken at study sessions.

- You may also call or email the mayor or council members to share your opinion on city issues. ▶ Contact information below.

MEETINGS & STUDY SESSIONS

City Council is required to have two meetings a month. They also typically have two study sessions monthly to learn about and discuss topics in-depth. Special meetings are scheduled if more time is needed to complete city business.

Time/Date: Council meetings are 7 p.m. on the second and fourth Monday of the month.

Study sessions are 6 p.m. on the first and third Monday of each month as needed.

Location: Meetings, study sessions and special meetings will be held virtually until further notice. Go to www.northglenn.org for updates on future meetings and study sessions.

WATCH & LEARN ... VIRTUALLY

Listen to the January meetings, study sessions and special meeting by phone at 720.961.5043. See agenda for meeting ID.

Council meetings and study sessions are shown live on Comcast Channel 8 or 881 HD in Northglenn and on www.youtube.com/cityofnorthglenn.
